THE HUMAN FACTOR IN BUSINESS

By B. SEEBOHM ROWNTREE

Author of "Poverty: A Study of Town Life," etc., etc.

Crown 8vo.

Cloth.

$2.00 net

The Author discusses the conditions necessary to secure Industrial peace, under five heads:

1. Earnings sufficient to maintain a reasonable standard of comfort. Profit sharing.
2. Reasonable hours of work.
3. Reasonable economic security during the whole working life and in old age.
4. Good working conditions.
5. A status for the workers suitable to men in a free country in the twentieth century.

Full details are given of the very complete scheme adopted in Mr. Rowntree's factory for removing the menace of unemployment from the minds of the workers, and there is an interesting account of the scheme under which the workers are given a share determining their working conditions.

The book is full of suggestions which will be of value to American employers who are facing many of the problems which British employers are seeking to solve.

Personnel Administration

Its Principles and Practice

By ORDWAY TEAD and HENRY C. METCALF

520 pages, 6x9, $5.00 net, postpaid

This book shows what plants—big and small—throughout the country are doing to solve the problems of employment administration. It covers employment, health and safety, training, joint relations, etc. It gives special attention to the relation of human problems to production. Obviously production is affected by working conditions, the workers' interest, standards as to quantity of output.

On working conditions this book outlines the program that progressive plants have found worth while. It tells in detail of methods in use to arouse the workers' interest. It indicates a new method for securing the workers' coöperation in fixing standards of daily or weekly output. It is by common consent the one, inclusive, systematic text on personnel administration.

In order to get the economic facts and an unbiased scientific discussion of the principles underlying public policies, public law, international relations and social progress.

A FEW NOTABLE ARTICLES PUBLISHED IN THE QUARTERLY DURING 1921

JAMES T. SHOTWELL's Democracy and Political Morality. A brilliant essay dealing with the evolution of political morality. (March).

I. J. COX's The Mexican Problem: Self-Help or Intervention. A sympathetic and readable treatment of a thorny problem, by a well known American historian, who outlines a plan to secure better relations between the United States and Mexico. (June).

F. M. RUSSELL's The Saar Basin Commission. An accurate explanation of just what the League of Nations has done in regard to the Saar Basin. (June).

EMORY R. JOHNSON's The Problem of Railroad Control. A masterly analysis of the problem of governmental control of railroads, showing why the Transportation Act of 1920 was adopted, how it worked in practice and "what remains to be done." The author is Dean of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce and is equally well known as an expert on transportation questions. (September).

G. T. ROBINSON's Decentralization of Russian History. A genuine contribution to our understanding of what has happened in Russia since the Bolsheviks seized power. (September).

H. F. MERRILL's Present Conditions in China. An illuminating discussion of the political instability and internal dissensions which explain the Chinese present impotence. The author has had more than forty years of diplomatic and administrative experience and writes with the authority of a first-hand observer. (December).

HOWARD LEE MCBAIN's Law-Making by Property Owners. A significant study of the constitutional questions involved in the attempt of certain municipalities to make the exercise of the police power dependent upon the consent of property owners in such matters as the exclusion of billboards, public garages and "noxious industries" from certain districts. (December).
